

METHOD AND DEVICE FOR TEMPORARILY STORING DATA

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and device for temporarily storing data received from a server in a distributed system. A minimum storage time for the stored data is designated by a user, and the stored data may be deleted only after the specified storage time ends. The stored data may be then retrieved during the storage time without the client being in communication with the server.

09753666 122800